Short Bio, revised (99 words)

Korean-American clarinetist Keeheon Nam cooks up his musical appetite as a performer, teacher, and administrator. His performances have taken him from dive bars in Minnesota to improvising Arabic music in Carnegie Hall. While not performing on stage, he is a passionate teacher and was a Juilliard Morse Teaching Fellow. He is currently under the tutelage of Richie Hawley at Rice University's Shepherd School of Music as he pursues his Master of Music degree. Keeheon is an avid home cook, and is unexpectedly, a ServSafe certified food safety manager.
